

Statement of Editorial and Publication Policies

Statement of Editorial and Publication Policies

1. Manuscript submissions (or substantially the same material/data) should not have been published or simultaneously submitted for consideration elsewhere.
2. Manuscripts should conform to the standard rules of English grammar and style. Manuscripts that are substandard in this regard will be returned without review. It is strongly recommended that non-native English speakers ask a native English-speaking colleague or language-editing service to check the quality of the English language before submitting the manuscript. Note that it is plagiarism to use another's text, slightly adapt it by changing a word or number here or there, and then present this as if it were your own words.
3. Submitted articles should largely contain previously unreported material. The overlap of contents between related papers should be minimal and normally confined to the introductory/review sections.
4. Authors should provide information at submission on any paper closely related to the submitted paper.
5. When the submitted manuscript is multi-authored, one individual must be identified as the corresponding author. It will be assumed that all the authors have been involved in the work, have approved the manuscript, and have agreed to its submission to this journal.
6. Changes in authorship, order of the authors, or designated corresponding author will not be permitted after an article has been accepted. Therefore authors should ensure that the author list is correct at submission.
7. The Publisher carries responsibility for typesetting, page lay-out and figure sizing for all accepted papers.
8. Authors are responsible for reading and correcting page proofs of their articles. Proof corrections are normally restricted to typesetting and printing errors. Major changes cannot be undertaken at the proof stage.
9. Authors are responsible for obtaining the necessary permissions from the copyright holder to reproduce previously published figures, tables and text passages in their articles (in both print and electronic formats) and to include evidence that such permission has been granted when submitting their papers (see also Publishing Ethics tab).

Translations

Manuscripts that were originally published in a language other than English will not be considered for this journal.

The Editors-in-Chief's judgment is final with regard to suitability of submissions.

If you have further questions, please contact the Publishing Editor for guidance before submission.

Page Charges

There are no page charges to publish in this journal.