INSTRUCTIONS FOR AUTHORS

All submissions to the Journal of Chinese Political Science should be submitted online: <http://www.editorialmanager.com/jcps/default.aspx> Please follow the instructions on how to submit online and how to upload the manuscripts. But, please read instructions for the preparation of manuscripts first.

Authors should create an account, and submit a full manuscript with an abstract and 5 keywords, which should be kept anonymous, and a separate title page that contains the following information: (1) the title; (2) author(s)'s names; (3) institutional affiliation(s) and position(s) with mailing address, email address and telephone number; (4) a biosketches or brief biographical statement of authors.

Manuscripts should range from in length from 6,000 to 10,000 words, including endnotes, references, tables, figures and appendices. Manuscripts should conform to the styling of Journal of Chinese Political Science. Manuscript will not be considered if it is concurrently under consideration by another journal or published or soon to be published elsewhere. The author is responsible for obtaining permission to publish any copyrighted material.

Endnotes are necessary only for further explanation of something within the text. They should be kept to a minimum and numbered consecutively throughout the text. Acknowledgements and information on grants received can be given in the first endnote, which should not be included in the consecutive numbering of endnotes. References must be arranged alphabetically under author(s) name(s) and then in chronological order if several papers by the same author(s) are cited. Manuscripts submitted should conform to the journal style, and authors should check the format of their manuscript with that of a recent issue of the journal, paying particular attention to reference style, tables, and figures, etc. Please contact the Editorial Office via Editorial Manager (EM), which will be forwarded to the editors, if you have any question.

Book Reviews and Review Essays Submission

We also publish book reviews on most recently published academic books in political science and review essays which address a significant development in theories, methods and other important aspects of the political science discipline and subfields. See book review and review essay instructions below for details.

Book review is a short review essay (750 words) on a book, summarize the main ideas, arguments, theories, methods, or findings, and explore their significance.

Review essay between (4,000 to 7,000 words) aims to review the existing academic literature to explore a new development or research agenda in the discipline or sub-fields or address a small number of books or articles on the similar themes and topics in a much more in depth and critical manner in order to consider how these books illuminate a larger and important conceptual, theoretical or methodological concern. Therefore, the review essay should bring a range of texts into dialogue with one another, identifying both thematic commonalities and methodological differences, and illuminating the purpose described above. For details, please see the “JCPS Call for Review Essays” on the right hand-side pull-down menu of the journal homepage: <http://www.springer.com/political+science/journal/11366?detailsPage=editorialBoard>

Authors who intend to publish review essay or book review in JCPS should contact the Associate Editor-in-Chief, Jessica Teets, via email at jteets@middlebury.edu , to discuss ideas for an essay or requirements.

Books for review, either by authors or publishers, should be sent to: Professor Jessica C. Teets, Department of Political Science, Munroe 318, Middlebury College, Middlebury, VT 05753, USA. Email: jteets@middlebury.edu
