MANUSCRIPT

PREPARATION

A manuscript should be in MS Word format. Please visit the Instructions & Forms at the JOL submission site for all the templates and requirements specified for the structure of manuscript, the fonts of text and equation, styles of citation and references, and artwork of figure-drawing, etc.

The International System of Units (SI) must be used.

Abstract shall outline the research background, objective, method, main results, and conclusion; and the significance and novelty shall be stated explicitly; <300 words in length.

Keyword list shall include 3–6 words or phrases.

In-text citations should appear chronologically and the reference list alphabetically. Internet materials shall be listed with an accessible URL and the date accessed.

Tables and figures shall be inserted in the context in order and clearly labeled with self-explanatory captions. Color printing is encouraged.

SUBMISSION

Please visit <http://mc03.manuscriptcentral.com/c-jol> or <http://link.springer.com/journal/343> for submission, and follow all the templates and guidance available in the Instructions & Forms. Files for submission include but not limited to, the manuscript, title page, copyright transfer statement, and figures/images in original format in which they are created.

EVALUATION AND ACCEPTANCE

A manuscript is first evaluated in editorial and scientific perspectives, and it shall be hypothesis-driven, novel, and have a broad interest to researchers and public outside the immediate area. Then, the manuscript will be peer-reviewed by at least two specialists. The decision will be made in about two months in general.

ENGLISH PROFICIENCY

Manuscripts of poor English will be disqualified from peer-review. At the time of submission, authors of non-native English shall provide proofs indicative of the English proficiency, such as certificate/diploma/document of education/working in English-speaking countries/companies, or language polishing by recognized companies or native-speaking professionals.

Upon the manuscript acceptance, it will have English refined to correct language problems occurred during peer-review and revision of the manuscript at the JOL Office's cost.

CHARGES

Possible charges include potential open access and manuscript processing costs, such as image drawing, language polishing, color printing, fast-track publishing, and page-amount based printing. For detail information or any concerns, please contact the editorial office.

Authors may be granted discounts or complete waivers at the discretion of the editorial office.
